“Everyday Wonder” with Rebecca Mattis

We can use the word “wonder” in a variety of ways. On one end, we have the wonder of the cosmos and of atoms, the things that bring us awe, great questions that will never be answered fully. On the other end, we can wonder how to spell a word, or what’s the weather outside, quotidian questions answered easily and immediately. I wish to explore the large space in between those two kinds of wondering, a realm where knowing dances with unknowing, and to suggest spiritual practices we might employ to encourage everyday wonder.

We will discuss "Theo of Golden" by Allen Levi

From Amazon: His name is Theo. And he asks a lot more questions than he answers. Theo visits the local coffeehouse, where ninety-two pencil portraits hang on the walls, portraits of the people of Golden done by a local artist. He begins purchasing them, one at a time, and putting them back in the hands of their "rightful owners." With each exchange, a story is told, a friendship born, and a life altered.

A story of giving and receiving, of seeing and being seen, Theo of Golden is a beautifully crafted novel about the power of creative generosity, the importance of wonder to a purposeful life, and the invisible threads of kindness that bind us to one another.

Ken Wells Memorial scheduled

Elke Baitus sent news that our beloved Kenn Wells passed away Feb. 13. A celebration of his life is to be held in the Wildflower sanctuary on Saturday, March 21, at 10:00 am, with Reverends Erin and Bis at the helm.

Book Club News

Our April read is: I've Seen You Naked 8,000 Times by Ilene Haddad, an Austin author. This is a humorous memoir of essays and cartoons and tells the story of how Ilene's one night stand turned into decades of marriage, navigating religious differences, home improvement, mental illness, travel and romance. The author may even join us when we meet on the third Monday in April for our book discussion!

Book Club book discussion for I've Seen You Naked 8,000 Times is scheduled for Monday, April 20th at 4:15pm CT, 5:15pm ET.
