Can Mindfulness
Help You Know
Yourself Better
When Someone You
Trust Says You
Don't Have the
Mental State You
Think You Have?

Has anyone ever insisted you don't have the mental state you say you have? For example: "You're just jealous even though you can't admit it to yourself!" On August 24, James Kraft, Ph.D. will help us discover how mindfulness can give us concrete, observational evidence for what our mental states are during such disagreements. And those of our opponents!
